“ Judy and I were best of friends from the time we were born. Our families spent holidays together, especially Christmas. I can remember standing with Judy around the family piano with Ginger singing. We camped together, and we played together. She and I were in each other’s weddings. Always Judy had a favorite phrase for us: “me n’ Gaye,” and it stuck. Judy was a “Ruth” to her Naomi, Leila Jeffers, and later to her own Mother, Ginger. She always was available to help her family and gave willingly of her time to them. She assisted her daughter Jill in raising her three grandchildren. Her faith as a believer in Christ was first and foremost of importance to her life with her husband Dick.

I will miss my Judy but am so grateful to know that she is sitting at the feet of Jesus now. What a wonderful privilege to have a friend that loved Jesus!
