“ A dedicated community person, who helped promote the history and heritage of trees and forests in North Syracuse. I fondly remember his enthusiasm for the recognition of the cemetery oak grove as one of the inspirations for L. Frank Baum's Wizard of Oz.

“ I first met Lewie and Ruth at Andrews Memorial and got to know them better when they visited my mother (Addie) and father (Bud) at my parents' camp at Fourth Lake. And, of course, Sony, throughout school. In his later years, my wife (Terry) and I would enjoy running into him at some of our local restaurants. What a joyful and amiable presence! He was, of course, synonymous with the School Board for us all. Beyond all of this, I will never forget when he told me, while chatting on the street: "I saw your father pitch." It was as though he were the voice of "The Field of Dreams." Lewie makes the idea of getting old such an attractive proposition. Terry and I send to you, Sony (and all the family) our warmest regards for the blessing of your father.
